changes are made in order to keep

three army corps in readiness for for-

Pall Mall made some woeful miscalculations and the officers in the field were not always up to their work; but in order to retrieve these blunders it was not necessary to call in question the discipline of the volunteer army and the patriotism of the nation by the British Scheme of present plan of reorganization, which stimulates the stread of militarism in a peace-loving community and leaves as the basis of imperial defense a specious paper scheme enmeshed with red tape, without the soldiers in plain sight.

The principal business of the House yesterday consisted of the death and burial for the session of the Hawaiian Tramways franchise bill. So stubborn militia and volunteers, a considerable has been the battle over the franchise body of imperial yeomanry and twen- that rumors of a free hand and an open ty-one volunteer field artillery batter- purse have been widely bruited abroad. The bill was raised from the table yesterday morning with the express purpose of finally disposing of it. Emmeluth was strong in his aversion to the measure, calling it an insult to the House, adding from thirteen to eighteen battalions that any "man" who brought it in, if ignorant of its provisions, should be put Mediterranean and Colonial garrisons in immediate possession of the facts. The and by the transfer of Indian troops to "man" struck Prendergast as an intended insult to Representative Mahoe, autions under the control of the navy; thor of the attempt to corral the rights of Honolulu's streets for the sole profit of Pain's elaborate car system for the next half century. Emmeluth assured him that no insult had been meditated fresh troops will be brought under by the term and moved an indefinite postponement. An hour's discussion settled the fate of the bill by a 15 to 13 vote. Beckley alluded to the intimations of bribery, repulileave three army corps behind to pro- ating the idea of such being the case. Kaniho furnished the comedy feature of the session by the introduction of a petition scantily furnished with signatures, containing many requests already handled in bills before the House. The and transport and be systematically petitioners humbly prayed for a law making Saturday a universal pay day; that the laws requiring burial certificates be abolished, while no attorney could collect his fees unless successful; if defeated he was to get half of what he primarily agreed to take.

The House thoroughly enjoyed the reading of the petition. Makainai introduced a resolution calling for an investigation into charges preferred concerning the loss of the concurrent resolution on joint session Saturday. It was claimed that it had been given to Makainal by Caypless. Beckley, Mahoe and Dickey were appointed to investigate.

He promised these as soon as the next mail arrived. The matter went over until then. This was petition day, but not very many petitions turned up. Hilo wants a $6,000 drill shed; Paele's constituents at Koolaupoko want $5,000 for their roads; the Olaa squatters want $5,000 for a like purpose; Puuki's balliwick came in with a modest request for $2,400 for Walmes
